As a president I would like the way students learn. How would I do that? I would have different classrooms teaching different ways. Because everyone learns in different ways. Also it would help I'd teachers came together and help the special need kids so that they are more successful in life not just letting them slide through school. Also it would help if teachers used more technology. I say that because it would save paper and money. Using technology will help kids learn from different countries and other kids. Technology will also get kids interacted in the lesson instead of staring at a book all day and writing. Students need to know teachers are there to help them through anything. Another thing is kindergarten should be mandatory because not all parents have time to teach their kids to read and write and do math while supporting a family. Kindergarten is to help kids get ready to read and write for first grade. Another thing not all kids have wifi at home so we should add wifi to buses so kids can do there homework. Student also need to be able to use their phones in class because they can easily look up how to do something while the teacher is busy. Also a big change that needs to be done is bus drivers to pass higher test to become a bus driver so the kids are safe and get home safe and sound. Some kids have been pushed through school and I would like to make a test that counts 30 percent of their grade making sure they know everything they need to know for the next grade. If they did not pass the test they will not pass to the next grade. If they missed one subject they will just have to learn it over the summer so they can pass over to the next grade.
